

Kitsap Community Resources Announces Executive Director Transition

As a supporter of Kitsap Community Resources, it is important to share with you the following information. Kitsap Community Resources has made the decision to transition from its current Executive Director, Jeff Alevy. KCR's Board of Directors thanks Alevy for his service and time leading the organization.

In the interim, the Board of Directors have named Irmgard Davis as Interim Executive Director; Davis is the organization's Fiscal Officer of more than 25 years.

Shannon Turner, KCR Board President, shares, "We are fortunate to have a strong senior leadership team within the organization. KCR has served the community for more than 55 years with trusted professionals helping families and individuals throughout Kitsap County achieve stability through compassionate service. Fortunately, KCR is the strongest it's ever been."

KCR is a dynamic partner in the Kitsap County community, and Turner expects the organization's rich history and breadth of services to attract well-qualified candidates. KCR touches 27,000 lives or 10% of the county's population through a variety of programs. The organization's services include Energy assistance, Housing services, Veteran's assistance, WIC nutritional food program, Early Learning/Preschool and Head Start, WIOA (Workforce Innovation Opportunity Act), BE$T (Business Education Support Training), job training and placement services, food services for Meals on Wheels and childcare centers, Energy assistance, Weatherization, AmeriCorps, and other community support services. KCR operates 13 sites throughout Kitsap County.

More information regarding the search process will be released as it becomes available.

We are grateful to you for your continued support of Kitsap Community Resources.
